THE TAMARACK

प5

North Central High School June, 1930

The class of June, 19:30. dedieates this 'loanarack to Hobart E. Rowlands.

Fou five gears Mr. Kowlands has worked tirelessly on perhaps the sehool's greatent project The North Central News. Ender his direction our paper has "on many national homors, bringing praise and fame to Xorth Central.
'The 'Iomarack, tow, is imbebted to him, for it is he who sponds hours after school taking and develeping the filue clul) pietures.

Norlh Central wwes much to this man who is always cheerful and willing to work for the good of the schoel.

Class History

Fiarly she reorning abont four sears agy a green bunch of frosh trundled ing to the cast contrauce．After receriving a halletin that said something about a zero period，what－ erer that was，they set out to find the andi－ toriuns．
－ffer mueh searching and sombe not ton gentle persuasion on the part of the janitor they finally cance to the conctusion that the boiker roonl was not the passugrems ta the phace where they were gaing．

Fon the first few werks these puore little fellows held the timelight，but not for long． 1．जoon as the soplomores had tired of testing us（yes，we were ance only freshmen，too， mpessible as it might seem．）we dropped back inte whacurity．It was then that we realized just hew unimportant frealanem really are in the general make－ill af affairs．
（Our soplomoore year was takell up entirely with teasing the ignorant little frosh．It was haral to imagine，with sll of our superior knowledge we believed we had acepuied．that we conld ever have been sa insignifieant．

By the time we were juniors we had re－ ganded the freting that prerlaps we were at Irast a little part in the school．Mont of us had joined semere clal，and a few were working with the leaguc and forleration．

Our class has one of the laegest gromps of athletes erer to gradnate from North celltral it ane bondy．

THIS YOUNGER GENERATION $\not \approx$

'This younger generation! What is to become of it? Time alone can tell. Older generations for centuries have beell condemning the young people. Are we growing worse?
One of the oldest tablets left by ancient peoples when diciphered was an account of the escapades of the young folks. It also contained arguments which world have been proof enough that young people are "going to the dogs." So we may surmise that this policy of condemnation hy older folks is not a generation old but centuries old.

Young people of today are the ones who are being preferred for positions of various sorts. Young people are the ones who hold the records for inventive skill. The younger generation down through the ages have done wonders. They have been instrumental in the work of perfecting various labor saving devices.
The young people themselves could not be the ones to acquire all these so called "bad traits." Our fathers and our mothers have handed them down to us and we are merely trying to keep up with the times.

Shall we, the condemned of today, be the condemning of tomorrow? Perhaps. After all it does seem to be human nature, doesn't it?

Four long years are about to eome to an end-long years hecause so much has happened in them. During this time we have derived mueh. Some of it from books, some from as sociations. We have tasted victory. Yes, and we have tasted defeat. We are now ready to meet the world perhaps, or go to some college and make a name for ourselves and our school. We will prohably be forgotten in a few years at North Central, but we will never forget our school. North Central seems to have become' a part of us.

Four short years-short because of the good times we've had. Short because of the friendships we've made-the fun we've had.
(iootloyes will be plat-and sard. Wie appreciate what North (entral has done for usthe opportmbities it has given us. We won't say goocllyge forcuer, just goothye for now. We'll experet to visit. No, a senior A who has always beroman ". $A^{\prime \prime}$ student connot "get by" without sthdying during his last semester.
The ubove assertion is fombled unan artual "apremere. An "A" student believes that if he. has completed three and a half years of high sclow maintaining throughout this entire period atl average of 9 or or per cont. be con waste away his final soluester in a riot of gaicty and gala barties without cerol opening a book! To some people this statement may sound absurd since any student with such a record would be led hy his own judgment to maintain his scholastie average; however, such is not always the ease.

These students believe that they will receive a high grade for two reasoms: one is that their reputation will influence the teacher: and the other is that the teacher will grade them on what they have known.

Good advice to sueh stments might be: remember that in later life your fellowinn will judge yom by what yom do, and you mast eontinue to do entil you achieve admirable recognition. That is sucecss, and tirellesh ancres: is the key to it.

liverybody must have his fling some day:
It is penctally thought school dass are the luest days of ones life. 'l'hey are if uned properly.

In the lower gradex, students, mbess musually ambitions, think of mool as a great hardship). 'lohey rare litfle for high seholastio homors. What they want is vacation. In a high school the student likes school hexanse of the ofpertonities it gives litm to assoriate with other youths. Such association is often used to disadvantage, but kemerally high school students use it to a kreat adventage.

If sorial affairs are allowed to outwerigh scholastic or extra curricular activities in schoul this association is usetl badly. Ary student of high solsool age knows by his own juslgment how to make the leest of his fime.

'The soft geoken prairice moon smiled mikdly down on a elamoreus, feveribhly bisy seeme in the camp of the little ()tter elan of the I3tarekfret. A huge council fire was sending flames high inte the air. Within the eirch of firebight. a ring of solemn-faced warriors spuatted.

Farther hack the squaws stont beating time with their hands for the wild war dance that was taking place closer by the commeil fire: where some one humdred or so braves leapeed and whirled in mad, dizoy frenxy. kereping in time with the booming of at war drmen, the clapping of the seluaws ant their own shrill "Наі, Flai!"

Inside the commed leclece situated in the center of a cirelc of teperes, all the chiefs and head men of the tribe were gallhered to disenss the matter in trand, the stealing of the Red Dong.
'This was the good medieine of the Blackfeet. It consisted of wing stomes from the Snake river, different herbs and the tail of a White Buffato tied up in hrightly colored wrappings of lasaver. Otter and lbuffalo shins.

In the shate of hamgir I recolined six men. "lohis shate wats dear to the lrearts of tha squadron members beenuse it was the onls shate of any si\% in three hundred miles of blistered borderland.
'lhese six men were not discussing the trials rand tribabations of a border pilot. Watela was thinking deoply. ()n all the faces wors the mingled look of late and sorrow. Now and then they eursed diligentlo, and with a (hitherate choice of extremely expressive ulljectives. a erortain mysterious airman.

Suddenly their attention was attracted by a lond whistling of struts and flying wires. . I nootor roared and the air was filled with dirt and papers from a near-by refuse basket. The motor whined as it pulled the "White Ilawk" skyward.
"I'le crew on the ground watched from foree of habit. Old stuff. It was only "Rusty" Wade coming in from a patral. We?l. We ${ }^{\circ} d$ get the dressing down, not they. 'That was old stuff. tors.
["p, up, went the white erate. Suddenty it stalled, fell off on the left wing. dropped the right one and repeated the process several timesa nice falling leaf. that. 'I'he ship again whipped skoward. It hung for a moment on its throbbing "prop" then arched into a loop, halfway eompleted it, rolled into an upright position and finished an Imomelman turn. 'l'he mose was thrust skywaret for the third tiuse. 'I'he motor atrained and pousticl. then gait. 'lone white ship slicl baek on its tail and the glistening "prop"whipped chownward. Down in ever tightning cireles spun the llawk.

Within five hundred feet of the ground she straightenesl out and (lropped her right wing. the slipped quickly and leveled off for a landing within three lonndred feet of the hangar ehoor. 'I'ail still up, she raced for the hangar. Almast at the foor the tail dropped, simme taneously the brakes squeaked and a mechanic pennered on its tail. 'I"he switeh was cut mud the

"Yoh slab sided sont of a salivated sardine? What (l) yult mean comaia' in lrere like a locoed chow-ehoo train! Why can't yoh conne on the tratiker like any other civilized sky wamlie: Do youh want tull break your fool neck:"
"Y゙uh can go back tuh bed any time ybh want to, pup-I want mỵ clanck."

Rusty strode to the mess hall and haileol the gromp cheerfully from the doorway. He filled a goodly portion of it. Ilis tomsled head rested on a mascolar meok at the base of which was a pair of hroad shoulders and a deep chest supported by a thin waist. loong thin logs and narrow hips held up the whote assembly.

He received short answers instead of the hilarions welcome. Something was amiss, for the flyers were gnthering around the table at attention. Colonel Wiekershan walked to the third chair from the end and stood at attertion. Is the squatron salated, the eolonel broke the plate and turned the chair bottont uy on the table.

Mint came to Rusty's eyes. His throat tightened and his stomach had a queer cold feeling. "Colonel!" he cried, "It's Stacy, Iny" bal:" Wiekersham nodded slowly.
Wade drew himself up and elenched his fists. "•V'••ll ule!" lie said.

Stacy, it seemed, had been found hanging hesd downwarl from his safety belt, which was tangled in one of the short straps of his chute, Stacy with a huge gash in his foreherad, a snapped vertebrae. a blond chotted face.

The tomsled head wagged hack and forth as H streant of sizaling. crackling cuss words burst upon the suoke-filled air of the mess room. "Well, the "IBig lBook" will batance soon. -hore 'nuff."

I cloud of dust ralled up from the east, and from it emerged a man, under whom was a batterech motoregelde. Whe slid to a hatt in front of hangar 1 and dashed inside.

I few moments later colonel Wiekersham called the men to attention. Ife steot in fromt of his segradrom, and waved a dispateh.
"Men," he said, "Men, l've just recerised a message from . Major Boles, of Ag (a) Caliente, seying that threg of his flyers have heren forced out of the sky in flames and that the are fertilzing the dandelions." "Boys, there was not a single buthet hole in ans of the three phanes, nor in the bodies of the dispatelned flyers. there is also a motation here from the ©Hol Han' to Hre effect that "lity Fingers Hanson is out of the federal prison and is sonewhere on the border."

Wade glanered at his watch and noted that he had ten winntes to go over the Donglas phane given bim for that patrol.

Is the ship warmed up la palled on his helmet, buckled up his chute and climbed aw $k$ wardly into his abbreviatect enckpit.
110 tested the controls and made himelf comfortable. He advanced the throttle, hopped the chocks and roared down the field 'The tail was ul) and his wheets spinning chear in an astonishingly short time.

It the end of the field the perfect white ship soudded into a wingover. "Rusty" swooped down over the hangar, pulled the stick toward him and sereamed skyward, disappearing into the morth east.

Is he winged over the vast panorama of southern Texas and northern Mexico, he was buried in thought, thinking of a lost pat ond of a clarge accoment in the "Big Book."

Ife suddenly snapped into action at the bissing of a swiftly gliding plane, it flashed below his line of vision; but not before he saw its color, a flaming, lourning, tantalizing sarlet.

Kage gripped him with iey fingers. The nobed over in pursuit. The scartet phane was climbing rapidly. Wiatle threw his nose heavenward and gate her full gom. 'The whirlwind in front of him was pounding out the r-p-m's at a furious rate.

The searlet plane banked sharply and raecel toward him. Below it he saw a wide spread loop that gristened in the sum. It hat the appraranee of a median sized rope, bet, as it glimmered and flablucl it towk on a stect! appearance.

Wade threw a barrage of lead in the direetion of the Viulture it had no efferet. He was foroocl to slip quixekly to avoicl the on eonning platue.

The searke plate swumg outu his tail but fired no shots. As the searlat crate followert bin skyward, Rusty pulled the stick to his stomach and held his ship trembling with ber nose to the sky.

Swish! Ping! The sparkling rope stapped bis wing-tip. To his amazement he sow flame speed toward the center section. "lusty" sideslipped in an attempt to extinguish the flatues. This proved unsurerssful. The flames were spreading rapidly toward the resorve tank in the erenter seretion.

With a hasty glanere at the altimeter. Wadre prepared to leave. Sesen handed feet heod have to risk it. "Rusty" stood arect on the wieker seat ond pulled the rip-cord. The pilotchute smapped out and draped the full spread of silk behind it. Wade felt the harness tighten around his thighs, and then he was afloat.

It dawn the next morning "Rusts" lowked out upoor a dazzling atmosphere. Ife helped the meechanic roll out his own bus.
It $4: 45$ he taxied down the field in the clinging mond. H. turned around and started the take-off. 'Wlue tail came uf sluggishly and be fonght the eontrols the full tength of the field before the mul sielded him up) to the wame.

The Story of the Tamarack

B!! Bill Nolun

Mrory, many, moons ago before you and 1 were aven burn, the ludians kept a record of many of the brave deechs. 'Ilaey woukd read them one a year, and then everyone coubl se what a vietorions year the tribe had hat. Thes always drew pietures in the sand to show of their brave achievements and victories. sometimes there were fearful rain storms that woukd blot ent these pietures. 'Then the brave deeds wembl le forgotten.

T'okera, a son of manous ludian chocftain, started ont on a lemg jonarney; for, in order to become a famous warrior, whe monst first prove himself stremg and courageous, and show his cleverness in outwitting the encmy. 'Tokes wandered abont the forests and on the pains for many days, always trying to find someway to show his bravery:
One day in his wanderings he chanced mon a beautiful Indian maiden. She was lest, and from her dress 'lokea saw that she came from one of his people's most hated formies. she appeared so beautiful in his eyes that he forgot about her being an enemy to his people. He started back with her to her tribe; but before they arrived at the camp, he was deeply in love with the maiden. 'I'hey decided to run away together. 'llaey went far away into the hills where 'rokea built a beautifnt wigwan for his wife, when be called Bright Eyes. For many mons they stayed in the mountains. 'Ihey were very happy in their home. Then one day Tokea returning from a huntlime trip) found a little bable addled in the arms of bright Eyes. Then he drew a pieture of a small baby on a tree. There were many pietures of brave deeds on the tree. It showed the pieture of a bear that he had killed. But the pieture of the baby he put above theom all becatue someday he would be a great chieftain.
One day a lumting party of fixe ladians stumbled upen 'lokeats home while he was out booking for some dry birch bark. Tluey noticed his wife, l3right liyen, and granping hold of her tried to carry her off. 'lukea, lataring her screams, hurried to her resene. In ef fury he dashed upon them. Swinging his hatchet, he killed the lemder of the party. He turned upon the rest of the party with frightfal erics. 'I'erified by the appearance of this madman, they took to their heels. 'They returned home with the story of the wildman who lad killed their leader up in the hills. Illis incident also weat down on the tree.

Then came many haply days, for now he had a som whom be taught to shoot and to throw a spear. Bright liges was happly, and sange as she did the daily tasks aromal the wigwan. Once in a while she would be sad, and wouler how her tribe was, aud what her persple were doing. One day, when explaining her trouble to 'Pokea, she tokd him that their son shonld have wher bittle children to play with and that she should see some of her own people. It was decided that they should go back (t) hur tribe.

Ifter bany day: they found her tribe, but instcad of meeting them with houts of ghatnass her people drove them away. 'Tokea and his wife and their son went in search of his tribe. His tribe prected him with opsoll arms. but they twok some time to get ured to the presence of a woman from a different tribe. 'fokea's sem soon karned the games that bee had been told about by his father, who had left his tribe so many years ago. Now again Tokea and his family were coatented.

His people did not believe all the sturies that Tokea told them of his past adventures. so one beatiful day Toker with his family and some of the great men of the tribe went back into the hills where he and his family had lived. The men satw upen the tree the ace coment of the great deeds that he had dome. They plamed a preat festival of celchation, and named this tree a 'Tamarack because of its ability to withstand the rath and snow.

Everyone in the tribe came to partake in the joyous gathering．＇lhe nest day after this ecelebration it was learned that their old enenny was approaching．＇I＇hey immediately formed a semiecircle in the wools each hatian hiding behind some tree or shrub in order that the enemy might mot see them．＇I＇he foes watked right into the trap，and the brases that were lead by＇looke＇a routed their uld ememies．＇I＇he nest day was at day for rejoicing，and ever since that time they have atways hat a big pow wow before a battle．＇They always won． After winning such a combat as this，they printed it on the＇fomarack．biven to this day you will find a lomarack in every Indiants home．

WHY WE SHOUlD STUDY HISTORY

We study the history of the past in order that we may have a better understanding of the present day. We learn to value the contrihutions which have come down to us and to realize the duty of developing our best to hand down to others. By studying the past we avoid its mistakes.

Until recent times the kingdom was the accepted form of government. Rome tried a republic but was not ready for it. History tells us the reason-that in order to have a republic the majority of its people must be wise and good. So we know that our United States of America will sueceed in so far as each of us does his best.
'Throughout the past there have heen countless wars for conquest. History teaches that as a result each nation suffered. Our age is trying to hring about the destruction of war. 'The London conference may not succeed, but the idea will be handed down for future people to make real.

So let us study History for its many valuable lessons. In addition shall we not read it for the pleasure it brings to us personally? But we cannot get this pleasure for nothing. We must put into our study attention and faithfulness and thought. Then History will open for each of us the inspiration of its pages.

ADVAN'IAGES OF ENGIDSH

Long ago, there was a textbook on Einglish called "Our Mother Tongue." No matter how dull any of the contents proved to be, always the title was alluring. Our mother tongueafter all, it is the keynote to all of our thinking, all of our talking, all of our every day life.
"But if we could just 'get' English!" you exclaim. "If we didn't have to learn rules and write themes!" Do you think Paderewski just "got" music? Do you think there was no running up the seales on his part? No time spent upon disagreeahle drills in technique? Is anything worth while achieved without adhering to hahit for a long while to make the achievement possible?

English is an open sesame to most of your other studies. It attempts to teach you to pick out the main thought from all reading matter and to grasp that thought. Without such ahility of what value would a history lesson be to you? If the words do not convey a meaning that will create images, what appreciation can you have of colonial times? Of the sailing of Columbus under hardships scarcely endurahle? Your vocabulary instruction, put to service can let you see before you Wordsworth's "loost of golden daffodils," can let you hear clearly Shelley's immortal lark. Surely, your study of outlining in English can help you distinguish the high lights in any type of reading. Your work in debating if you are willing to apply it, has shown you that in any subject (say Civics) you must support a statement with sufficient reasons. Undoubtedly, the letter writing you have done is helping you to pass thoughts on to some absent friend, to know the value of good forin, to respect courtesy in business. And to know how to employ our mother tongue in letter writing, as well as in talking, is something insisted upon in the business world of today. A knowledge of all these things ean help you in what ways as far as your North Central News, for instance, is concerned? The need of such knowledge, on the part of anyone desiring to enter a News class, is summed up in the major requirement for entrance: "excellent work previously done in English."
But the above applications have had to do mostly with school. What about English when you leave North Central? Is it going to be called a "falsety cultural" subject-one not really serviceable? The "talkies," the radio, your conversation, the newspaper, not to mention countless other agencies, will offer an answer.
'The "talkies," we are told, are insisting upon a future foundation in English: a correct pronunciation, an excellent enunciation, and the power to interpret. Becausc some of the legitimate stage actors already possess these qualifications, they have usurped many a place from persons of mere screen fame.
Grahan MeNamee, widely known in the radio world, advises prospective radio anmomerors to major in cortain phrases of Fing lish work．

Creat busimess opportunities lie at our very aloors and business points the wiay to bangolages.

Sturly languages thern for business reasons. for pulitical reasons, to cultivate an anclerstanding of our meighbors whieh will bring about a sympatlyy for thesu and their problems, which are our prohlems, too, and will be more so as time goes ont.

Sturlents interested in sevence, in musied in art, in literature lave always studieed and should continue to acquire language. Nuch that is pertinent in the fielal of seientifie research cannot be fount in translation, so one mast wat years before it appears. 'loo reap the benefits in the fielel of foreign enteavor in the sciontific werld, one must be able to reat the works in the original.
l'eople who travel shonlal know forvign languages. I'le knowerelge is essential in order to gain the greatest pleasure nad benefits from a trip abroad. lo know what goes (on about son, to be able to communicate with those one sees and meets is ome of the greatest joss of traseling. Furthermore it is decoded finameial assct; it sates one montey and grief.
'I'hen, last but very important, is the pleasure mat profit that one mase derive in being ahle to reate the best in world literature and reat it in the original, since trmaslation, non matter how good, can nexer equal the original.

'I'hr chice aim of celueration seerns to be the most complete development of the powers of the student the powere to think and do. (ialining facts is only one of the instrmments nseol to develop, the power.

In what way is mathematios fitted to bear part in the process?

The practical value of mathematies is conormous when we consider that mathematies lans hern the fioneer and insures the results la these days of iron, stean and electricity.

It might be contouded that to a vist majorits of people the valor of mathematios is indirect. Wैe might ask: "W"hat subject tanglat is any more direct:" Foor direet, practical nsefulnesss, bathematies seroms to be second only to the mother tongue. 'The cleoments of Vinglish are in constant use, the elements of mathCHaties are in oceasional use ant such also is true of other subjects. It is true that a person in business rarely would need to know hose to solve a quadratic equation; similarly it would he laral to imagine one's needing the ability to scan hexameters or to name the parts of a flowar.

I subject is also valuable as a preparation tor the probability that the child in the future may take up an oceupation requiring a koowleolge of the subject in question. For mathcomatios this valne is marked, beeanse there is a lurge ant growing number of weeupations whicls reduire koowledge of mathematical results.

Besales the practical values, buth erertain and frabathe mathematies has value on the imformation it imparts. la whatever civilization mathromation may be found it is alwass of the same elatracter. ()ne mation did not discover that 2 times 5 equals 10 and amother that 2 timen 5 equals it.

Sa) complotely is mature mathematical that some of the more exact natural seiences as astrommony and phesies nre in part largely mathematical. Other scionees nre trifting to the mathematical truths.

The facts of mathematies, important and valuable as they are, are not the strongest reason for the study of the subject bẹ nll bupils. It is the best subject to train in certain modes of thonght.

One of these modes is the ability to grasip at situation, to seize the facts and perceive corbetly the state of affairs. '1 The business man must constantly reckon with attempts to mislead him. He must learn the facts if he can. not only without assistanere but in spite of anotise opposition. Wathematioss is especially: ulapterl to the begioning of the practice.

Conclusions which must be made every day are often of complicated mature and are diffiralt to determine. It is justly debatuded that the school familiarize stuckents with n mode of thonght whiclt in facing us every day. Math ematiocs possess this power far more than :mal? otber subjecet. Tllue rharacteristios of sum : whiject shonld be that the student com lue ere tain of himedf and kmow when he is right. There is duce, luat ouly une branch of standy "hiell can claim certainty mathematios. It is alow smule emongh in the beginaing and proceeds step lige steple tume elatorate thinking. Then, the condelisioms obtained are applicalbe.

Eneh mint know the sherthent of the furmala, the meaning of a simple graph, of at simple eeforation, and of a mogative mamber or - lace monst feel the stigma of ignorance of the fommon thimgs that the edneated world talks about and reads alowit.

I type of thonght se essentially characterister of the homan mind so little influenced by: enviromment, so mifurmly present in every civilization is one of which ne well informod wind tonlay ran be ignorant.

Many are the advantager of taking fine art Among the first of these is the development of appreciation of the beantiful. We learn to apprectate the ghery of the arts such a wonlpture, china painting and design. We learn to love the matoral beauty of the out-of-themes.
serondty we stady the fine arts in order to cultivato acenracy of obervation. (oftentime we think that it weuld be ghite an casy undertaking to draw womething that we see every day and that reems very simple. If we attempt it, we realiza that ne matter how many time we have thenerved the objeet, it in quite need sary for us to examine it earefully lefore we may make a picture of it.

Powsibly one of the mest important adrantages of a fine arts comere in the development of cratative ubility flat it hrings cut. We inaty prodnce beantifal designs from the pattern of if mere daisy or we may make something lowely by faing the elipsen of various bowls. Agatin we tind that traning in artistie work stimnlates the isolgination anal promoter enjownent of life as well as the wertlyy use of hoisnre tiree. Dfter studying art we may visit a museum and learn more about things there than we womled have been able to had we been deprived of the privileges of the art eolrse. We inaty like the statues and patinting if we learn to weave a stor! of our own abomt them.
'fliree other things that we derive from such a study are that it increases interest in the commonplace things, that it reveals the natural ability and it lass a foumbation for an art earerer in prainting, sculpture or dexign.

mounted his horse so that he might get it casily and was just forcing his mount closer to grasp the object of his quest when a doge trotted around the lodge, saw him and howled loudly. Cirey Wagle's horse plomged away nearly unseating hims. By the time he lad his frightened pony under control again, the other dugs in the immediate vicinity had seen him, and were barking viciously. Soun the camp was in an uproar. Gres Eagle realized that he inust make haste or clac his enterprise would be lost. He kicked his pony inten a gallop, and as the passed the medieine lodge staod up in his stirrups and tare the leed Jog from its ladge pole "lhen with a shrill war-whoop he rode madly back the way he had come. Behind him he heard the hubbul, of the comp and in the roar of anger that went up when the Rerl Dog was founding inissing. He put his pony to a swift run and soon the clamor of the Cheyenne camp was far behind.
'The sun was just appearing over the horizon when Grey Eagle and his jaded pony plodded into the Blackfeet camp. He dismonnted before the medicine lodge with his precious burden and calleal loudly to the Buffalo Man, the medicine man of the tribe. When he appeared, Grey Fagle bauded hion the le'd Dog and sald,
"Oh Buffale Wan, let the Blackferet rejoice onere again the leed bog reposes in the 13lackfeet medicime lodge."
'Ihen, glancing meither to the right nor to the left, he strode majestically to his lolger.

Alt that day presents were given to (irey Eagle. Viven horses were presented. 'l'hen to top it all off, White Wrolf offered him the hand of Vellow lizd in marriage.

The happiness of Grey lagle was connplote. The gots, inderrl, had been good to him.

In the serond game．the Builpups proved as wneffective as in the first same．The Indians won this game ly a sere of 33－x This gitlte was alar marked by the fact thit the（iomadg：

temm was so closely guarded that they failed to make a field goal motil late in the fontlo quartor.

North Central's twa game series with Itillyard proved me more exciting than the ganes of the (ionmaga series. Hillyard lost the first game $5-24$ and the second 7 -3:3.

Is usial the 'Tigers gave North Central the best fight, and twice the Iewis and Clark sflual came near to beating the North Siders. '1'he 'liger team started the first game off with a bang. and kept the seore in donlot antil the last part of the fourth cquarter when Roland Joluson shot a basket to cinch the game. 'The finall seore was 19-17.
leewis and Clark came to the north side gym fur the secomed batle, but the Indians fought tom hard for the 'ligers and took the game $20-15$.

Reveryone expected the Tiger tribe to give a stiff hattle in the third game, and the Tigers certainly lived up to the expectations of the people. Determined to win at any coot, the sonth siders fonght every bit of the way, but in the last part of the game they beerame too excited and made a nomber of fouls which cost them the game. Horton Herman's wonderful shonting of free throws helped the coment which ented 19-16.

It eight ofelock the next morning, the Red and lalack tean met and defeated Centralia 17-13.

Fenster threw a big seare into the teall by leading $12-11$ at the lalf, but the indians seem to lit their stride in the seeond half and woon $2 \mathrm{~m}-11$.

The chanpionship tilt saturday night. Mareh 15, was the most exciting game of the series.

It the end of the first quarter the Walla Walla tean led 5-t. but in the seconcl quarter the Indians came through to score enough points to end the half $16-\mathrm{s}$.
Faceed by almost certain defeat, the Walla Walla guintet took the Indians by surprise and tied the score before the leed and Black tean fomed its stride akain. '1The lead scesawed hetween the two teams intil late in the final dmarter when the Indian five took the lead and the game by a seore of $29-25$.

Basketball Players

ROH..SNI , JOIINSON

One of the hest haskethatl players in the state of Washington is Rolanal Iohnson, North Central center. He has played in three state tournaments for the ked and Black. Thiss year he was manimously chesen for the pusition of all-city center. North Central is very fortunate in having such a good seorer and floor man as folland who led the individual seoring colmm this season in the city race.

HORTON HERMAN

florton was given a place on the all-city selection this year lecause of his scoring ahility and his gmarding ahility: Ilorton is another player in whom the lied and Black can place glory and in whom North Central can

Ine prond of as a plaser. In three different tomrnaments at Seattle. Horton has heen a very prominent figure. Ilis playing this year was very gool.

IOF 13F:たSON

Joe is a new man aromed school, but he is certainly making himself known ly his athletic prowess. Joe went to the state toumament this yoar and gave a very good aceonnt of himself. Ilis shooting ability las lreen one of the main factors in his playing.

Plil, schinlow

fhil is regarded as one of the best baskethall gharels in the city, and hecause of his defensive playing was awarded a place on the first allcity teanl. I'hil is another one of the leed and

Bhack platyers whon hats Ineern in threes state tournamaonts．Phil often proved valualile it the coty raco by his chase checking in a tight place and hy his stellar work in breaking away to seore．

Baseball

The Indian's bascball season started April third with a win over Whitworth college. 'The game was a practice tilt, and Coach Jacky used a. great many substitutes during the seven innings that the game lasted. North Central won the game 15-0.

Springdale was the second term met during the practice season. Springdale offered real competition, pushing the Indians to the limit to win. In this game, Kingen, the Indian's pitcher, held the opposing nine to there hits. The Red and l3lack nine gathered sis hits from the Springdale chucker. 'I'he first score came in the sixth inning when llenderson of North Contral scored. In that same inning, s Springdale player scored to even the count. (iullidge scored again in the eighth to put the Indians in the lead, 'The final count was 2 for North Central and | for Springlale.
(olfax, the third team played, failed to stop) the Indians in their victorious march. North Central started out by seoring two runs in the first inning. 'The second inning prowed to he a scoring spree with the Indians getting five runs and Colfax two. From then on the final outcome was never in douht. The game ended with the Red and I3lack leading 1:3-7.
'The Indians entered the eity series with a game against Gonzaga on April seventeentla. (ionzaga led until the fourth inning when the North-siders hit their stride and made seven tallies. In the eighth inning the Indians made two more counts to bring the final total to nine for the Ked and Black and three for the Bullpups. Rea, Anderson and Gullidge led the seoring attaek with three hits and one ran apiece.

On April twenty eighth the (ionzaga hasehall team won its first victory ower the North Central squad that it has won in years.

From the start the game proved to be a thriller. 'Ihe seore was close with both sides making use of all the "hroaks." J'aul Anderons who usually plays in the outfiekl, pitched the whole game, allowing only two hits.

The score was tied until the eighth inning, when Cionzaga executed a squeeze play to bring in the wirning run.

1hog dlenderson and Al Kingen were the only flayers who crossed the home plate.
'The final seore was two to three in favor of the butlpups.

The Indians started the month of May with a laseball vietory over the 'ligers.

From start to finish the game was exciting. Due to a home run by Rea, the Northsiders went into an early lead: but the Sonthoiders tied the seore by the eighth inning.

Going into the last inning with the score tied, the Indians made a desperate effort to break the tie. George liefel got on base. Another leed and l3ack batter hit an infiekl ball that was fumbled, and "liefel started to run to third. 'liefel rounded third and ran home with the winuing ron. 'lhe seore ended with the Indians leading two to threce.

A] Kingen pitched a fine game for the Northsiders with Rea doing good work behiad the bat.

North Central's supporters had the joy of seeing the Indian haschall team take the I anthers loy a score of ten to four.
'lhis game was figured by the team to be one of the hardest on the schedule. Hillyard had sixtect lettermen report for the openning practice and had high hopes of winning the permant this year.

Kingen held the Panthers to six hits. He fanned thirteen of the llillyard team. (ieorge Tiefel found his hitting eye for the first time this season. In four times at bat. Tiefel hit there doubles and one single.

Another beavy hatter was "Peewee" Murray who hit the ball three time in four trips to the plate. Anderson hrought in three runs in the eighth with a limer down the third base line.

On the Panther team the pitchers didn't hawe such a good time for the Indian hatters gathered twelve hits.
